Nick's Fight began in April of 2011, at age 15, when he was diagnosed with stage 4 metastatic Alveolar Rhabdomyosarcoma, a very rare, aggressive and hard to treat cancer. The treatment protocol was 54 weeks of chemo and 6 weeks of radiation. It took 67 weeks to get the chemo in because of the side effects and being in the hospital 7-10 days out of every month for 16 months. Even though he lost 50 pounds Nick was still standing at the end of the treatment. Nick ate his 1st meal in 18 months on Thanksgiving Day 2012. Nick's weight and hair returned as well as his energy for school and work. But, in January of this year we learned that Nick's cancer had returned so the fight continues and Nick continues to take the punches. Please help us help the Jimmy Fund knockout cancer so that no more children have to fight for their lives. www.nicksfight.com
